

FORTY NINE YEARS AGO

THIS TURTLE WAS MARKED FOR IDENTIFICATION.

Merritt Clark sees the Chelonian Marked by His Brother, in Milford, in 1846—Another Marked Later Also Seen Occasionally on Mr. Treat's Farm.

Merritt Clark, of the East Side, Derby, took a drive to Woodmont Monday and visited the scenes of his childhood and roamed over the fields which have long been occupied by descendants of the family, which has many branches in this section of the state. On the farm now occupied by Mortimer Treat Mr. Clark saw a curiosity which highly pleased him, and quite a bit of history is connected with the curiosity. While sitting in the house Farmer Treat showed Mr. Clark an ordinary mud turtle. Chiseled on the back of the turtle were the initials N. C. and the year 1846. The initials were engraved on the turtle in the year 1846, by Nehemiah Clark, a brother of the guest.

In those days it was a fad among the young men to cut initials and dates on the shell backs to see if the turtle was domestic and how long one would live. Mr. Treat has seen the turtle he showed Mr. Clark Monday every year and always in about the same place, near the brook on the farm. Although the man who cut the initials on the back, forty-nine years ago, has been dead forty years, he left the fact behind him that the ordinary turtle does not wander away from home, and that its life is a long one.

Another member of the turtle tribe was marked 1848, and this, too, is seen frequently by Mr. Treat. While walking in the meadow, one day, a few years ago, the latter struck the 1848 turtle and chipped a piece of shell from its back, which was seen on the occasion of its last walk near the brook in the meadow. The turtle is about the same size and are nearly ten inches in length. How old they were at the time Mr. Clark engraved the dates on their backs is unknown, but one thing is certain, that they are over a half century old.

The novel objects proved quite interesting to Mr. Clark. After close inspection the turtle was returned to his accustomed haunts. They will never be killed by anyone on the farm, and they are to be animated heirlooms to go to the Clark and Treat posterity.

ANNUAL PEACE MEETING.

Some of the People Who Will Address the Multitude in the Grove.

The preparations for the coming grove meeting of the Universal Peace union with the Connecticut Peace society promises a very interesting occasion.

The number of those who have already promised to be present and address the convention is large and includes William Lloyd Garrison, Benjamin F. Trueblood, L. D. D. and Mr. and Mrs. James H. Earle of Boston, Mr. R. Levermore, L. L. D., of Port Richmond, Staten Island, Hon. Hadist A. Hall of New London, Dr. Ellen Goodell Smith of Dwight, Mass., W. H. Hall, secretary Connecticut Sunday school association of West Hartford, John Branson of Philadelphia and Simon W. Hapner of Frankfort-on-the-Maine.

The prize contest for declamation will be a new feature of the meeting. The number of contestants will be large. Appropriate songs will be included in the programs of each session.

THE CROP OUTLOOK.

Fruit and Vegetables Plentiful With Prices Downward—Dealers Say the Crop Is Too Big to Bring Big Prices.

Dealers in vegetables say that there is rarely a year that there is such a supply and such quality as this season. The rain came soon enough to be of benefit to all but the earliest vegetables, and now the supply far exceeds the demand. Those who planted gardens are blessed with an abundant yield, and those who have no gardens are able to buy at reasonable prices. A good quality of green corn is coming into the markets. String beans, peas, beets and other small vegetables never were better. Potatoes, which two weeks ago were scarce, are now very plenty, and the farmers are bringing in extra fine stock in quantities that the grocers cannot handle them, and the price is dropping until on Saturday some sold them for twenty cents per peck.

Lovers of cabbage do not have to stint themselves this season, for early cabbage is fully headed, and at the wholesale sells as low as fifty cents for thirteen heads. New Haven's vegetable farmers residing a Cedar Hill, Hamden and other nearby places all report their crops as rank and luxuriant—the yield big and the prices correspondingly low.

Died at the Almshouse.

BOTANIC GARDEN'S SITE.

Park Board Decides to Locate it in Bronx Park—Says It Will Be a Grand and Easy Access—Plans for Laying Out the Grounds A-Plotted.

New York, July 30.—The board of park commissioners met to-day and passed resolutions setting aside 250 acres of Bronx Park for the use of the New York Botanic Garden.

The resolution was passed in pursuance of the act authorizing the use of the public land for that purpose and the appropriation of $500,000 by the city for the construction of buildings and laying out of grounds, providing $250,000 was raised by private subscription.

The grant was made on condition that Hemlock Grove be not interfered with without the consent of the board.

The land set aside for the garden is within the following limits: Beginning at a point on the New York Central Railroad 600 feet below the Southern Boulevard, running 3,800 feet north-east along the tracks; then slightly southeast across the Bronx, a distance of 11,000 feet; thence 3,900 feet southeast; thence in an irregular line to a point 800 feet north of the Lorillard mansion; thence south 1,900 feet and to the starting point.

Commissioner Haven and Roosevelt were the members of the board present at the meeting. Cornelius Vanderbilt representing the projectors of the garden, who have raised the fund to $250,000 was also present.

Calvert Vaux, the landscape architect, has been engaged in preparing the maps of the proposed garden for some time. He submitted them to the board to-day, and they were accepted in the form of a resolution.

Among those who have subscribed largely to the scheme are Cornelius Vanderbilt, J. P. Morgan, Andrew Carnegie, D. O. Mills, W. A. Dodge and a number of other prominent New York men.

BLAZE ON CHAPEL STREET.

Caught From a Gas Stove—Loss $3,500—Quickly Extinguished.

Quite a fire occurred yesterday morning at about 10:30 in the millinery store of Mrs. Agnes Cochrane at 1093 Chapel street, just above Hillman's ice cream store. The store was almost entirely ruined, and it is thought that the loss from fire, smoke and water will reach $3,500.

Mrs. Cochrane thinks the fire originated in the explosion of a gas stove, while Marshal Hubbard thinks some clothing caught fire from the stove and started the blaze.

The fire department did good work and extinguished the blaze in fifteen minutes. The loss is partially covered by an insurance of $1,800.

CHURCH FIGURES.

The Oldest Body in This State is the Congregational General Association.

The general association of Connecticut—the oldest of our Congregational state bodies—was organized in 1790, one hundred and eighty years ago. It had been in existence ten years when John Wesley wrote to Oxford: For seventeen years when he was elected fellow of Lincoln college in that university; for thirty years when he organized the first Methodist society; for sixty-one years when the first Methodist preachers landed in this country. Now, according to Dr. Henry K. Carroll, the census returns show 51,489 Methodist churches in the United States, with 4,589,284 communicants. The total number of Congregational churches in this country, according to the same authority, is 4,868; total number of communicants 512,771.

CONVENTION CONCLUDED

FRENCH CATHOLICS WANT THEIR SERMONS IN FRENCH.

The Next Convention to be Held in Willimantic—Date Not Decided Upon Yet—Resolutions Adopted—Vote of Thanks to Local Committee.

The French Catholic convention of this state was reopened yesterday morning at Germania hall. Nearly all the delegates were present and the morning session was given up to the discussion of the use of the French language by French Americans and French Canadians in the home, in the church and in the parochial school.

The prevailing opinion seemed to be that every French Catholic in America should learn thoroughly the English language, but should speak French at home. It was also the expressed wish of the entire convention that their sermons should be preached in the mother tongue.

Father Chagnon, who is chaplain of the convention, said that he thought if the French language were allowed to die out, the Catholic faith would die out also, and this seemed to be the opinion of all the speakers.

At the afternoon session the committee on resolutions appointed Tuesday presented their report, in which the sentiments expressed by the various speakers during the convention were incorporated. The report was accepted.

The next business was the gathering of statistics from the delegates regarding the French population of the various towns in the state, and the number of French societies and their members. These statistics were given to the secretary with instructions to formulate them and then to report to the different societies. It is estimated that there are 1,200 French Americans in New Haven and about 35,000 in Connecticut.

The session was then given up to general remarks on the condition of French American citizens, in which Dr. Larue of Putnam, Mr. McIntosh of Grovesend, Dr. Le Claire of Danielson, and Rev. Father Carlier of New Haven took part.

Father Carlier said that the French population should be proud of living in this country, and that such missionaries as Marquette and La Salle were the first to penetrate the west. They should also be proud of the part taken by Lafayette and Rochambeau in the war for independence. In the War of the Rebellion over 40,000 French Canadians fought for the Union. He also said that French Americans wish to be law-abiding citizens. They are willing and desire to use English in business, but in the home and in the church will stick to French. He was heartily applauded.

It was decided to hold the next convention in Willimantic. The date was left to the executive committee, but it will probably be at about the same time of the year as the present convention.

A general vote of thanks was extended to the local committee and to the officers. Father Dunn of Willimantic also complimented the convention on the dignified manner in which the proceedings of this meeting were conducted. He also said that at the next convention a committee of delegates would probably be appointed to write a report of the convention in English, which would be given to reporters.

President Barabault said that the delegates were much pleased with the address of President McDonald of the board of aldermen Tuesday evening, and particularly with his eulogy of Lafayette and Rochambeau.

THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andrews of Hartford Celebrate Their Fiftyth Anniversary—New Haven Relatives Present—Interesting Event.

Hartford, July 31.—The relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andrews of No. 515 Main street gave them a golden wedding party at their home yesterday afternoon and evening. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews were married in this city July 30, 1845, the bride's name being Eliza B. Kilbourn, and her home East Hartford. Neither of them can remember who performed the wedding ceremony. Mr. Andrews was a native of Glastonbury and had begun business life in this city as a mason contractor.

The couple have lived in this city ever since their marriage and have had four children, three of whom died in early life. The surviving daughter is Mrs. Henry Rhodes of New Haven, she with her three children, Lillian, Harry and Myrtle, comprising all of the descendants of the couple.

The ceremonies yesterday were informal, except for the presentation of a purse with $165 in gold coin, and the reading of a poem by the Rev. Frank Countryman of North Branford, whose wife is a niece of Mrs. Andrews. After this there was a collation and an hour or two of sociability, in which the fifty or more guests joined. In addition to the purse of $165, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Daily of this city presented to Mr. and Mrs. Andrews two bouquets of yellow roses, to each of which was attached a gold medallion with the Lord's prayer on one side. This medallion was stamped on the first steam coining press ever owned at the United States mint in Philadelphia, in 1838.

The relatives present, other than the daughter and the grandchildren, were Hudson Andrews of this city, brother of Mr. Andrews, and Mrs. Silas Galpin and Mrs. Henry Buttricks of New Haven, and Mrs. Nelson Taylor of Lebanon, sisters of Mrs. Andrews. Mr. Andrews is 73 years of age and Mrs. Andrews is 70, and they are in good health and spirits, and the many friends who greeted them yesterday wished them continued life and health until, at least, their diamond wedding could be celebrated.

DEATH OF MRS. RUEL ROWE.

She Was One of the Most Highly Respected Ladies in the State.

A woman of noble personality and most lovable qualities expired yesterday morning at her home in Fair Haven East. She was Mrs. Abbie Gordon Rowe, widow of the late Ruel Rowe, and her death was a release from a long illness, patiently and cheerfully borne.

Mrs. Rowe attained an advanced age, but seventy-two years and eight months old. She was a lady of brilliant attainments, being particularly well read on a great variety of subjects, and despite her age and infirmity, due to a chronic illness, was young in heart, and keenly alive to the affairs of her latter days, being able to the last to discuss most intelligently all the important topics of the times.

Mrs. Rowe was a devoted mother, and to her surviving child, Henry C. Rowe, the well known oyster grower, was all that a loving mother could be. It is needless to add, then, that Mr. Rowe is almost prostrated over his loss. The end, although expected, both by herself and friends, and although that end was met with true Christian spirit, strong in the assurance of a rest beyond this life from all pain and trouble, still the shock is none the less keen to the loved ones left behind.

For more than a year Mrs. Rowe suffered from the illness which proved fatal. Before that time, for a number of years, she was subject to indisposition, but it did not take a serious turn until some time over a year ago. Her trouble was chronic bronchitis, which was complicated at the last with a tubercular trouble. Death came at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. Mrs. Rowe was conscious to within a few hours of her death.

Mrs. Rowe was born in North Branford, her father being Washington Gordon, whose family is one of the oldest in the place. About fifty years ago she came to Fair Haven, where she taught school, and about forty-seven years ago was married to Mr. Rowe. By him she had one child, Henry C. Rowe, who survives her. Her husband died about seventeen years ago.

Since the death of her husband, Mrs. Rowe had resided in her own comfortable home at 155 South Quinnipiac street, with the exception of periodical visits to the home of her son. Toward the last it was necessary to minister often to her many close attentions, which her son did, cheering her declining years, and for which she constantly expressed loving appreciation.

Throughout her illness her friends paid her most kind and constant attention, in calling on her and sending her delicacies, all of which were a source of great comfort to her.

Mrs. Rowe was a thoroughly consistent Christian, and for forty years was a member of the Second Congregational church in Fair Haven.

Although having been an invalid for twenty years or more, she delighted in deeds of charity, and made a practice of tending the sick and feeble, bringing light and comfort into many homes. Her circle of friends was large, and all will miss her greatly.

The funeral services will be held from her late residence, 155 Quinnipiac street, on Friday, August 2, at 2:30 p. m.

Barker of Meriden and Elder William N. Pile of Brooklyn, N. Y., both very able men, will preach. Thursday, August 22, will be prophetic day, when Dr. Barker, Mrs. Rebecca J. Smith, editor of The Herald of Life of Springfield, Mass., and Elder W. N. Pile will speak on prophetic themes of deep interest. Other able preachers whose names cannot yet be announced will speak during the week. Sunday, August 25, Elder W. N. Pile and Elder D. T. Call of Saco, Me., will deliver the closing sermons. An interesting feature of the meeting will be a series of six Bible lessons covering two hours each day from 10 to 12 o'clock except the two Sundays and prophetic day, beginning Saturday, August 16. These lessons will consist of investi-

CLOTHING

Is to the man what cutting is to the diamond. The man in rags may be as good as one in broadcloth, but somehow the world does not think so. He is the rough diamond of humanity, while his less deserving but better dressed neighbor, like a cut diamond, is appreciated and admired.

DEATH IN THE AIR.

A changeable climate is the most exciting cause of pneumonia. The mild today, cold to-morrow, weather is a prolific breeder of the disease. It is contracted by exposure to wet and inclement weather, from standing or sitting with cold feet; by going from hot and over-crowded rooms into the keen night air, and by sitting in draughts.

The proper way to treat pneumonia is to prevent its development.

Have a care that you are sufficiently clad to meet inclement and changeable weather. See that the wet feet and exposure to draughts do not result in cold. If a cold is contracted check it at once before pneumonia is developed; for it is a well known fact that a protracted cough may suddenly develop into pneumonia, with a slight additional cold. Don't let the disease make any headway. Fortify the system against it by rich, nutritious, liquid food. This can be accomplished in no other way so well as by the liberal use of Ozonulose, an ozonized preparation of Cod Liver Oil with Guaiac, prepared by T. A. Stecher Co., New York, and sold by all Druggists.

Taken early, when the first symptoms of the cold appear, it cures it promptly and prevents the development of pneumonia. It is a rich, liquid food, and it is a well known fact that strong food is the most formidable foe of pneumonia. It keeps the blood well nourished and puts the tissues in such a condition that they throw off the disease.
